WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The hearings on the Shipping Bill were continued by the House Committee of Merchant Marine and Fisheries today. A. Furushet of San Francisco, in behalf of the International Seamen's Association, proposed to bill on the ground that it contained nothing to restore American sailors to American citizenship, and give American boys their "sea legs." He presented resolutions calling for the American Association of Labor on behalf of seafarers and stating that the shipping industry was able to take care of itself, and proposed to withdraw this bill until the shipping interests could have the position to the eight-hour measure. He presented also a general measure to amend the bill to restore seafarers and to improve the personnel of the American marine.

A. Furushet, from the National Board of Trade submitted resolution adopted favorable to the bill. Similar resolutions by the American Association of Master Pilots also were presented.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

SESSION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—SENATE.—At the beginning of today's session of the Senate, Mr. Cockrell of Missouri, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a substitute for Mr. Pettigrew's resolution calling for information regarding the Coeur d'Alene miners to the Senate. The substitute calls upon the Secretary of War to submit to the Senate copies of all orders given to Gen. H. C. Merriam and to all officers under him, and especially any proclamations of Gen. Merriam as to the miners and care of the civil prisoners. The resolution was passed.

A House resolution authorizing the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad to build certain military reservations through the Fort Pitt and Fort Sill military reservations was passed.

A joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to build for instruction Academy of Engineers at the West Point Military Academy was passed.

The resolution of Mr. Allen calling upon the Secretary of War for orders and information concerning the collection of customs and revenues in the islands of Puerto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines was passed with slight modification.

At the conclusion of the morning hours, the Senate of the Fifty-sixth Congress Committee called the Urgent Deficiency Bill, and the Senate proceeded to its consideration. The bill, with its Senate amendments, was passed. At 12:45 p.m. the Senate of Mississippi took the floor to speak on the resolution relative to voters in the South.

NORTH AND SOUTH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Mr. Money replied to the speech of Mr. Pritchard of North Carolina, relating to the proposed amendment to the Constitution of North Carolina. He maintained that the proposed amendment was unconstitutional, because many other states had embodied in their constitutions a qualification for suffrage, and, further, because Mr. Pritchard had admitted that there were 50,000 negroes in North Carolina, who would not, and consequently that amendment did not discriminate against the negroes. Mr. Money said he did not believe the negro could be admitted to the franchise as would enable him to carry out such a government as ours. The ability to govern is dominion was born in the white race, and had been in their blood for hundreds of years. He said that the demolishing element of negro suffrage should not be injected as an obstacle to the onward course of liberty.

Mr. Money stated in no colony, of Great Britain, except in New Zealand, did the black man rule in the government. The man had not, but the white race had found it impossible to share the government with the black.

Some controversy arose over the responsibility for bringing up race and sectional questions, and Mr. Chandler said that the question had been opened by the remarkable speech of Mr. Morgan, in which he had misrepresented the South and the North and was being followed by other southern Senators in the same vein. Mr. Chandler read that paragraph of Mr. Morgan's speech in which the Alabama Senator charged that the civil war had been precipitated by the bigoted politicians of the North with the idea of holding upon the people of the South in the negro and political equality.

"Denounce that," shouted Mr. Chandler, "a slander upon the North, and—"

Mr. Pritchard of Alabama. If the negro would not, and moreover, for him to wait until the more senior (Mr. Morgan) returns before criticizing him.

Mr. Chandler, I intend to wait, but I want the senior Senator from Alabama, who is absent: I want the junior Senator from Alabama, who is here, and I want the Senator from the Southern States who have responded this question, which I supposed was forever dead in the water, to tell me what the South is to do to correct it to allow a charge made upon this floor to go unanswered, that the war for the Union, which was growing out of a northern determination to prohibit the extension of slavery into free territory, was a war of ambitious politicians with a mere design to have the slaves on a political and social footing of equality with the southern whites. Now, if the southern Senators who have responded to this question, they will have plenty of time before this session ends.

That ended the debate, and at 4:45 p.m. the Senate went into executive session and soon afterward adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—HOUSE.—The House adjourned at 12:45 p.m. on the Roberts issue, and the interest continues unabated. Large crowds filled the galleries of the House when it was called to order at 11 o'clock. Some 150 members were present before the debate was resumed. A bill was introduced to create another judicial circuit in the east division of Tennessee. A bill was also introduced to fix the salary of the postmaster of Washington at $6000. February 10 was set aside for paying tribute to the memory of late Representative Settle of Kentucky.

Mr. Sims of Tennessee was the first speaker today. He made a legal argument in favor of seating and then expelling Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Broome of Pennsylvania argued that metaphysical and technical considerations should not deter Congress from doing its duty.

Mr. Green of Vermont supported the contention of the majority for exclusion.

Mr. Talbert of South Carolina said that in a case of such a technical and defendant "immorality" technical considerations should not weigh. Representing the constituency he did, he said he should support Roberts first, last and all the time.

Mr. Adamson of Georgia said the violation of the statute against unlawful entry into the United States is a violation to membership in the penitentiary rather than in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Roberts came into the hall while Mr. Adamson was reading and listened to the debate from a lounge in the lobby behind the rail.

[COAST RECORD.]
HONOLULU PLAGUE.THIRTY-NINE DEATHS UP TO JANUARY SIXTEENTH.*Mrs. George E. Boardman, Whose Husband is a Descendant of the Kings of Maui, the First White Person Thus Far Stricken.*Business and Inter-Island Traffic at a Standstill.—The Attorney-General Threatens With Gun a Gathering at Hilo.Cattle King Miller Seriously Injured. Murder Charge Against Heanessey. Dismissed—Cousins Get a Miller's Estate.[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]*HONOLULU, Jan. 25.—Wires from Victoria, B. C., Jan. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There have been thirty-nine deaths from the plague in Honolulu to date. Only one of these has been that of a white person, Mrs. George E. Boardman, who died January 16. When it became known that she had been seized with the plague, panic followed in the city. Up to that time there had been a feeling that the whites who observed sanitary precautions were immune. But Mrs. Boardman died of a affection, but Mrs. Boardman died in church and charitable work, and lived in excellent style in a good part of town, in a large house, and kept a number of servants. Her husband had a slight descendant of Hawaiian blood, but was a descendant on his mother's side from the kings of Maui. He is an agent for the Japanese and Japanese laborers.*Mrs. Boardman owned and managed the fine-air department of one of the large retail stores. A dead rat was found in the store, and the superintendent removed the board. It was not touch it itself. It is supposed that it was in this way that she contracted the infection. It is said, on the other hand, that when the quarantining was placed on Chinatown, the day after a certain number of some of her servants were within the quarantined lines, she secured their release by the Board of Health.*She had been sick for two weeks, but the distinct plague symptoms developed only January 14. Monday morning, when the fact became known, a man developed. There was then a general alarm of a general quarantine, including the suspension of all business and requiring that all persons remain at home. Meat markets and grocery stores were swamped with orders in anticipation of this, and the greater number suspended. Measures, no such action was taken, and the next day the feeling quieted down. A Citizens' Sanitary Committee was organized, and the town, outside of the quarantined district, was divided into small districts, with a committee for each.*A complete list of residents of each district has been made, and twice a day each inspector sees each person in his district, reporting every case of sickness he finds immediately to headquarters and looking after the sanitary condition of the houses. In this way, the spread of the disease, of each case, in insidious, to reduce the spread of infection, and put an end to the plague. The Board of Health does the same for the Chinatown district.*Business and interisland traffic at a standstill. Some commerce in certain articles necessary to the health and sanitation and sanitary regulations is carried on. Even this has been stopped with Hilo. Sheriff Andrews of the Island of Hawaii, having been appointed agent of the Board of Health there, issued an order forbidding any communication with Honolulu, even going to the mainland. This developed as a rapier of all mail, though it had been thoroughly fumigated before leaving here, and, it is said, destroying Chinese and Japanese mail. Several steamers left here for Hilo with permits from the Board of Health. When they got to Hilo, they were refused landing, and were even refused supplies of fresh water. The Kinus came back.*The Board of Health, Gen. Cooper as its agent, at the same time revoking Andrews' commission as Sheriff and Board of Health agent. When Cooper reached Hilo, he refused to land, the mob, gathering with guns and others weapons to prevent him. Sheriff Andrews went on board the Kinus to consult with him, but on his return, the mob refused to allow him to land. The officers of the survey ship Pathfinder assisted him to make a forced landing. Further information of what happened has not been received here.*The action of Andrews and the people of Hilo has been condemned by public meetings of the people of every other district of that island, and protests have been sent here. The question of food supply in many parts of the island is becoming serious. One Hilo is charged by the people of other portions of that island of being prompted to the action she has taken by commercial greed, hoping to make itself a source of supply by means of its communication with the coast and the cutting of the Honolulu. Now that the blocks in Honolulu have been burned down, by order of the Board of Health, the buildings being declared infected. The fire department is kept busy nearly every day burning down blocks and houses.*Dr. D. A. Carmichael, for the past fifteen months representative of the United States Hospital Service, has been appointed chief quarantine officer for the Philippines, and goes to Manila by the first steamer.*The Japanese steamer Doyo Maru arrived here January 15, with 430 contract, and 296 free Japanese immigrants, and the 1000 Chinese. About the same number today. Both vessels will have to remain here for some time, as there are already about two thousand Japanese immigrants on Quarantine Island, all there are accommodations for, and none can be sent to other islands under present conditions. It is believed that this is the last steamer to arrive with Japanese immigrants.WANT NO QUARANTINE.[A. P. DAY REPORT.]*SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—The coal importers of this city are about to petition*the Treasury Department to ignore the quarantine regulations in regard to coal ships. The coal men claim that the delay to the ships is very expensive, and that the examination never results in the discovery of any contagious disease. Nearly every coal importer in this city has signed the petition.INOCULATED BY A FLEA.[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.]*VANCOUVER (B. C.) Jan. 25.—A wharf laborer here has been stricken with the bubonic plague, and the attending doctors are of the opinion that he was inoculated with the disease through the bite of a flea.TWO WHITES DEAD.[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.]*SAVANNAH, Jan. 25.—The total number of deaths up to the time the Miners sailed for this port was twenty-nine out of thirty-nine cases. Two were white, and the other was a half-caste.*The other deaths were about equally divided between Hawaiian natives and the orientals. Six other whites who had been stricken with the disease have recovered. The total death list is as follows: Two whites, one half-caste Hawaiian, three Japanese and thirteen Chinese.NEW CALEDONIA CASES.[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.]*VICTORIA, Jan. 25.—Mail advises from Sydney tonight announce twenty-three cases of bubonic plague at Noumea, the capital of New Caledonia, and special precautions are being taken by the Australian colonies to guard against its importation.HENRY MILLER'S FALL.[A. P. DAY REPORT.]*GILROY, Jan. 25.—Henry Miller, the California cattle king, was thrown from his buggy today and sustained concussion of the brain. It is feared that the injury is extremely serious, owing to the severe shock coupled with the advanced age of the millionaire. The accident was caused by the horse taking flight at the train. Henry Miller is one of the richest men in California, and conducted the enormous business of the Miller & Lux. The firm owns over a million acres of land on the Pacific Coast.*When Miller was picked up by parties who had fished and had followed the flying train, he rapidly stuped and remained in a semi-conscious condition until medical attention arrived. The shock caused the fall was aggravated by a fall of Driver McMullen, who was thrown from the carriage of the team. Miller's carriage was summoned, and the injured man taken to a hotel. Toward noon he became visible, and was perfectly rational and able to take the afternoon train for San Francisco. The doctor said he had been stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage.*Mr. Miller weighs over 200 pounds. The accident would probably have been more serious had he not fortunately fallen on soft ground covered with grass.MISER HERMIT'S ESTATE.[TO HIS FIRST COUSINS.*[A. P. DAY REPORT.]*STOCKTON, Jan. 25.—Judge Jones decided the estate from the bench that the sole heirs to the estate of Peter Christensen, the miser hermit, died in this country over a year ago, are four first cousins of the deceased, residing in Denmark, on the island of Alsen. They will receive an equal share of what remains of the estate after the legatees of the will are settled with about $75,000.*Christensen was an illegitimate child and had brothers or sisters, though there were claimants to the estate, who were related to him.*The Judge, in his decision, said that it was positively in evidence that Christensen had no brother or sister, and that he was a native of Denmark and not Norway, as other claimants declared. The decision is a victory for the Thorson claimants.DEFENDED HIS SISTER.[A. P. DAY REPORT.]*SACRAMENTO, Jan. 25.—William J. McCann, charged with the murder of John Hennessy December 26, was discharged today in the City Justice Court. Hennessy had called a sister of McCann's wife and the latter struck him. Hennessy's head struck against the sidewalk with such force that concussion of the brain and death followed. The sister, Mrs. J. M. Dickson of Ferndale, Humboldt county, owes $4004.92, which he is unable to pay.JOHN HENNESSY UNCHARGED.[A. P. DAY REPORT.]*LESLIE, Jan. 25.—The City Justice Court, Hennessy had called a sister of McCann's wife and the latter struck him. Hennessy's head struck against the sidewalk with such force that concussion of the brain and death followed. The sister, Mrs. J. M. GORY GLORY.

"G" indicates that the British suffered greatly later from a shell fire from a farther position.

The general that there was only a small garrison at Spionkop came somewhat as a surprise, as it was thought Boers were there in force, and it is taken as some quarters to indicate that the Boers were not so surprised at the assault as it appeared, but perhaps a few of them had left a British force to withstand the British advance. It is even suggested that the Boers investigated the British into occupying Spionkop, and have now surrounded it.

It is evident in spite of the fact that the British are in the hill above, that the Boers have succeeded in bringing up some artillery to inflict considerable losses on the British, who, with sixteen Spionkop, although Lord Dundonald is supposed to have been securing the country beyond the range in order to prevent the British from getting away. It is incomprehensible to me that England Lytton ought to have got near enough to Spionkop to either intercept the retreat of the Boers, or to have some rebus which have never done her the slightest injury.

BIRTHDAY RECEPTION.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—The Northern German Gazette this evening publishes the following: "The commander of the British First (Royal) Dragoons has sent a telegram to the Emperor from Cape Town, saying: 'The Royal Dragoons send their respectful greetings on the anniversary of the birthday of their colonel-in-chief. The Royal Dragoons repeat, that the colonel-in-chief sends the Royal Dragoons his best thanks for their wishes.'

PORTRUGAL NOT REINFORCING.

LA P. NIGHT REPORT.

WISCONSIN, Jan. 25.—In the House of Peers today the Minister for War, Col. Sebago Telles, replying to an inquiry on the subject, declared that the government had no intention of sending a son to Lorenzo Marques. This reply is regarded as indicating that the government has seen no necessity for reinforcements.

SUZERAINTY QUESTION.

LA P. DAY REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Montague, the South African diplomat now in this country, today authorized the following:

"The impression that is said to exist in certain quarters that Dr. Leyda is not recognized by foreign powers as the diplomatic minister of the South African Republic is a complete falsehood. Great Britain's claim to suzerainty is false. Dr. Leyda is credited to and fully recognized as minister plenipotentiary of the South African Republic by the following powers: Russia, Germany, France, Holland, Belgium and Portugal.

The South African Republic was represented at the Congress in Europe and on the continent for many years past by Dr. Leyda's predecessor, the late Jonkheer Beelaerts van Blokland, who was indirectly recognized by Great Britain.

"The suzerainty was created by the convention of 1881, but was abolished by the convention of 1884. It was subsequently recognized by Great Britain. The government of the South African Republic strenuously repudiated the claim, and has submitted to this by every international lawyer in the continent, as well as by such eminent authorities as President Kruger, Dr. Leyda, Sir George Williams, Harcourt in Great Britain.

The international status of the South African Republic is acknowledged by most powers, and it is now recognized as a state in its own right, and also as a permanent state.

Sir Charles Warren's opinion that miles of adjacent Boer intrenchments are untenable is also held by most experts, observers and obvious reason, because of the height of the position, although some point out that it may lack adequate gun platform to resist artillery fire from the two extended sides.

It is not likely that Gen. Warren will do anything but hold on and news of further success is calmly awaited. The military authorities recognize, of course, that in the twelve or fifteen miles between Spionkop and Ladysmith there are considerable difficulties and rugged hills and ravines far enough from Spionkop, but they are sure that the troops who have turned the Boers out of difficult places will do the same.

The military expert of the Times says: "It is exceedingly difficult to arrive at any exact estimate of the advantage gained by the one-sided tactics of the Boers, but it is in the fulfillment of the strategic plan. It is necessary to await further communications before attaching undue weight to what success has been gained by Warren."

LA P. NIGHT REPORT.

London, Jan. 24, 4:15 a.m.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Gen. Buller's phrase "The men are splendid," thrill English with pride and courage. His name is well known, but we have seen Dr. Schifman, who extracted two of my largest without pain whatever. His method with great satisfaction.

It did not hurt a bit, and I suffered but a trifle. I am now in the best of health, and my gums are in good shape.

THE KIDNEY CASTLE reached Durban yesterday (Thursday) with 2000 additional troops for Gen. Buller, and these troops, having arrived from India, probably, are a regiment of Lancers. Beyond this it is not publicly known how heavily Buller's forces are. They are having certain connections with the War Office, and are confident that Gen. Buller will have as many men as he wants to have in his war easting.

The situation in the neighborhood of the other armies is unchanged, but a general movement is being fully expected.

A dispatch to the Times says: "The Boers are still in command of Spionkop and Ladysmith, and are continuing to harass and ravage hills and ravines far enough from Spionkop, but they are sure that the troops who have turned the Boers out of difficult places will do the same."

The military expert of the Times says:

LA P. NIGHT REPORT.

London, Jan. 24.—(Associated Press Correspondence.) Wired from Chicago Jan. 25. The following account of the battle of Colenso, written by an infantry officer, was received by today's mail:

"After the most terrible one-sided battle of Colenso, last Friday, I fainted when I got to camp, from sunstroke, and Saturday morning I found that I had dysentery. How any one escaped Friday is a marvel to me. We were in a severe storm, with a high wind, and it was like a severe hallstrom, with a tin roof. I could not put my glasses on without hearing 'phit, phit, phit.' From the very first I saw it would be no go."

"Directly we got under fire a corporal said 'My God, wonder how many Boers are there hidden in that wood along the Tugela.' I said: 'I expect'

"The Boers treated our wounded men, in fact did not treat them prisoners, as they said they could not be bothered with them. They took the wounded, and would offer one with a title, but they rifled their pockets and went for the bread in the haversacks and the rations. They can be getting much bread now. They are stripped our dead of all clothing, and officers' breeches were highly prized."

"The arrangements made by the medical officers were perfect. The wounded were picked up almost at once, and within two hours they were comfortably settled in hospitals and being attended by the best nurses, with every comfort that money could procure."

TO NEGOTIATE PEACE.

MONTAGUE WHITE'S MISSION.

LA P. NIGHT REPORT.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—(Associated Press Correspondence.) There has been a good deal of guessing about why Montague White, formerly representing the Transvaal government in London, is now in Washington. He has called upon Secretary of State Hay, but has presented no credentials and asked for no recognition.

From a pronounced pro-Boer source it was learned today that Mr. White's mission here is for the present, but for future service, and the Transvaal government has given rather indications that President Kruger has already prepared to receive him when he is getting the worst of the war and can gain nothing more.

Mr. White believes when the time for such a mission comes, this government will be the mediator through which negotiations will be carried on, and this government, in turn, will be somewhat surprised to find that the Transvaal government will have something to suggest regarding the terms upon which the war will be ended.

Therefore, while Mr. White will present them at the State Department the moment negotiations for ending the war are in sight, and if recognized he will be in a good position to assist in negotiating terms advantageous to his country.

President Kruger is said to have decided thus early the terms upon which they will be made, and for his part he will be in a position to proceed with the negotiations immediately. He has the absolute independence of the Transvaal, and he is reported to have been withdrawn from the British army.

He is reported to have been sent to the Uitlanders.

THE LAND.

Orchard, Farm, Garden, Rancho and Stockyard.

ORCHARD AND FARM.

EVERY few readers of The Times are aware of the magnitude on which farming operations are conducted in Southern California, away from the small orchard farms of the foothill regions and the suburban localities of the State. The old Spanish farms, or ranches, have disappeared, their owners unable to contend against the inroads of American enterprise, or to resist the temptation of luxury obtainable through the disposition of their old establishments for cash. But the new order has not yet come. The old farms have, however, the transformation may have brought forth new methods of running the great isolated farms of Southern California. In the early days of this country manufacturing, mining and stock raising were the industries most in vogue upon the great estates of Spanish America. The activities of these ancient haciendas immediately succeeded the secularization of the old missions, if they were not pretty well under way when Mexico took from the padres appropriate the great tracts of land that had so long been owned by them. Soon after the church was compelled to give up these great holdings, the Anglo-Saxons began to possess himself of the best of them, largely through intermarriage with the descendants of the original grantees. The present large farms have been obtained mostly within the last two decades, by individuals and syndicates who bought them for the raising of stock, grain and fruits, the investments running largely into the hundreds of thousands and conducted with the modern spirit of scientific agriculture. Such is the ranch owned by Andrew McNally, the Chicago publisher, and located in the southwestern portion of Los Angeles county.

The Windermere Ranch contains 2400 acres, all in cultivation. It presents a picture of great wealth and interest that cannot fail to be edifying to those who have the opportunity of visiting the ranch. It is not every big ranch that can boast of a professional chemist, exclusively employed on the ranch, or that is employing plant doctors, entomologists, pathologists, and who are engaged in the treatment of farming and fruit growing. We look to the ranch at La Mirada for some valuable pointers upon olive growing, also, and in the manufacture of oil and a new by-product the chemist of the farm hopes to produce. The ranch is largely experimental, and the maintenance of big farms is detrimental to a country, in California there are problems of farm and orchard economics that can only be solved by the centralization of capital on a scale sufficient to utilize the products of the farm and orchard through the manufacture of by-products, as well as the marketing of produce in the usual way.

Crop Conditions.

THE orange growers and shippers of Southern California have not been idle for the last few weeks, although shipping have had a hard time, and when the orange market again has had less value of investment than has been necessary to equip this big ranch. In all, about $250,000 has been employed in purchasing, planting and equipping the ranch. Its cultivation alone requires the work of two men, and the house and stable and horses used principally in orchard work, but sufficient to plant and harvest two square miles of grain. In the economy of ranch work here, the farm has its own artesian wells, house maintained by hand, consisting of a living-house, blacksmith shop, paint and wood-working shops, laboratories for manufacturing two or three by-products from its fruits, lemon-curing house and dairy.

To enter particularly into the work of this ranch requires a very long article. The stock department has about fifty hogs, Poland and Berkshire. The meat is all consumed on the ranch; fifty head of high-bred cows for the home dairy, of the Jersey and Holstein stock. There are well-kept and extensive sheds for horse-feeding, with the latest appliances for equine health. The cows are housed in modern sheds with approved feeding stanchions and convenient feed racks. Convenience in grooming is noticeable in every case, and the horses and mules are kept, and every head of cattle, cow and hog pens drawn large toment tanks on hillsides, where a field tank may be backed in to receive the manures for distribution to the orchards. The tanks are built in the way of fertilizer anywhere about the place, and cement ditches and tanks are connected with the flow from an artesian well, so flushing can be done easily and thoroughly.

From the wheat and corn raised on the ranch excellent flour and meal are made to supply all the bread used by the workers, and the surplus fed to the family. In this connection a large deer vegetable garden is maintained, a large poultry yard, and the herd furnishes the meats, and a good kitchen orchard, the fruits used upon the ranch. In the kitchen garden there are two duplicate plots, harrowing, rolling cutters, pulverizers, everything needed for cultivating the ranch, so that with the whole force at work on farm and orchard, the blacksmith has a complete set of implements at hand for repairs—an economical arrangement of great value in rushing the work upon the farm. One large shed is devoted entirely to the storage of steam engines, sprayers, sprayers, farm wagons and other vehicles. A great many of the machines, implements, tools and appliances is to wonder at the magnitude of the equipment necessary for the running of a large California ranch. In addition to all these is the immense roofage necessary to protect the men and horses, storage for grain, forage, and seed, and the main buildings contains the laboratory for working the juices of the lemons and grape fruit into citric acid and "Kiro," respectively. This building is 60x80 feet. The basement is built of solid stone and walls. Overhead, the floor is of timber, and the manufactory is built upon timbers 6x8 inches, giving extreme strength and solidity to the main floor of the structure. This basement is devoted to the storage of grape fruit and lemons, and the curing of the latter, when in preparation for market. A great deal has been invested in this building, and it is one of the most complete of its kind in the fruit districts of Southern California. The ranch-house of the Windermere is a fine specimen of modified mission architecture and the depot building is of the same design, adding very much to the beauties of

NOTES AFIELD.

SAY a farmer near Pomona this week applying stable manure to a young orchard with bunches of volunteer alfalfa growing about over the land. This was a waste of good material, unless the farmer had another place to put his hay. In San Diego several ranchers are not engaged in putting out large plantations. This important fruit should not be neglected, as it is a good crop. The fertilizer would have done some good applied to lands that were deficient in nitrogen. Simple fertilizers should be used for cotton. There should be a record kept and a formula originated for the annual distribution of both raw and assimilated fertilizers, for their improper application causes great loss and disappointment to the fruit farms every year.

California is not only disturbed by insects not found in other States, but is infested with some of the most beneficial insects. I visited an orchard this week which had been subsoiled to about sixteen inches. The hardpan had been broken up sufficiently to admit of thorough irrigation, and the orchard was loaded with an enormous crop of oranges, and the soil in the line of the work is beneficial in this line. But the soil was filled with angieworms, as is the soil in most lands of the East, and they would not form any conditions. Unfortunately, the fishworms of our boyhood days will not live in the soils of California subject to the same conditions. The fishworms, Florida soils are destitute of these fertilizing agents, as the worm that is found in the orange-lands there, and the attempt to introduce them failed. The angieworm is the greatest distributor, or equalizer, of soil elements, and they are great assimilators.

The Agricultural Department at Washington is originating a bill designed to protect the fruit growers all over the country, the same as we have a bill passed in the Senate right. I hope the bill will pass, and that its provisions will so protect the orchardists of new varieties that their fresh fruit will be expensive to the ordinary grower cannot afford to buy them. In every community I visit are sent to a particular spot direct to the music of horns, songs and laughter, will largely an eastern party, a great number of them, have been accustomed to the beauty of a winter's day among the foothills of the mountains, and the day is now come when the glories of the umbrellas tree, the umbrella tree, Bradbury building, Los Angeles, he has an interest in the same, and the attempt to introduce them failed. REACHING OUT WEST.
Speculators continue to push out in every direction and there are now real estate dealers still coming in real estate which are overhanded by the oil business. The large fortunes that have been made by a few fortunate men remain while the craze for oil has stimulated the craze for land and little else is now talked about in real estate circles.

COMPILATIONS IN TITLES.
A short of a few speculators to a lot of oil territory in Fresno and San Joaquin has given rise to serious complications in titles. The authorities of Washington have passed a law to stop this, and they are now at a point seven miles west of city limits. The result of this is to cause owners of land in question to mark up their values, an property in the line of probabilities, and in still another manner. The oil and Santa Monica is very firmly established in the cracks of a very large area. The arrangement is evidently a good one if the attendant oil easily keeps the city clean and to take out everything important for oil. The oil is to be sold for oil. In another building, the boxes, also set on boards, are turtles, and in still another manner, last would seem to be the most. There are no oil in incubators and if they are reared a proper manner from the down town there will be no way while they are the best.

BELGIAN HARES.
Origin of the Breed.
A GREAT many people in Los Angeles are engaged in breeding Belgian hares, and as many others will be interested in origin of the breed, we have ascertained by the San Jose Mercury.

There are a great many opinions as to the origin of the breed, but it is conceded by most authorities that to a few hares of the breed were brought to the United States by a Frenchman for the present type, much later by the English foxhounds.

It is generally agreed that the breed is a standard of excellence, and that it is the best of all breeds as the latest and best in the world over.

There are many even breeders, who still think that the breed can be found in some countries of Europe, and that a thorough overhauling as there are several contradictory decisions on the subject during the past few years.

STREET CONTRACTS.
A fatal accident at the Third-street tunnel has brought the whole of street contract work up for the present time, and it is generally admitted that the work will be done in this direction. When the contract for the third-street tunnel was first called attention to this, it was thought that the work would be done in a short time. The price was unusually low, and that it was very doubtful whether the contractors could meet the cost of the work even.

It has been proven that this surmise was correct. The story of the tunnel for the past year has been one of constant delay, accident, and a fair treatment of laborers. A growing opinion that such a tunnel should be done directly from the city to the beach, and the interested property-owners and the taxpayers and of the men in the work would be advanced.

COUNTRY PROPERTY.
A great many people are interested in buying property in this time to greatly improve the demand for property. As it is, there have been several transactions in country estate during the past week, and the price is still high. The cost of money, Dr. J. W. Craven, near Rialto, in San Bernardino county, has disposed of his estate, consisting of 150 acres, which will plant the other half of the land in fruit, mostly oranges. The land was sold to a syndicate of eastern capitalists, and the price was $150,000. The new owners will plant the other half of the land in fruit and to not open for nine or ten years in every way showing their rabbit tendency.

THE SAN DIEGO BOOM.
Quinces vs Peaches.

A N EASTERN horticulturist contains an article in its paper issue on "Quinces vs Peaches for Profit." It compares the two fruits, and says that the peach is the better fruit, and that the peach is more profitable than the peach.

It is said that the peach is more profitable than the peach, and that it is not subject to any more than the peach.

It is to be noted that the peach is the better fruit, and that the peach is more profitable than the peach.

PRICE OF LUMBER.
It is being indulged in throughout the East to the probable sale of lumber in the near future. In no section of the country is there more lumber than in the West, where most of the residences are built of wood.

The darkening shadow of wood, or the expensiveness of lumber, has come from the forests, and comes from the forests. It will be a fair question whether or not lumber will be cheap, as values will less than one year ago. No one can say for sure, but it is known that many staples of the advance made in part ten months. It is known that the price of lumber is still increasing.
